This application contains claims 58-64 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancelation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-3,5,80-93 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the instantly recited sodium nonatitanate from Honeywell, IL on instant pp. 9 and 16.

The taught sodium nonatitanate has a strontium/rubidium separation factor of 12,500 at an alkaline pH which is not patentably distinct from that instantly claimed and therefore is obvious thereover. See MPEP 2144.05, section I.

Applicant's arguments filed August 31, 2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant argues that the Honeywell product has a separation factor of 12,500 whereas the instant product has separation factors of 59,200 to 141,000 which shows that the instant product is different from that of Honeywell.

However instant claim 1 is not so limited to such separation factors of 59,200 to 141,000 therefore this argument is unpersuasive.

Applicant argues that because applicant has permissively carved the prior art from the claimed invention and because the limitations claimed by applicant are not disclosed, taught or suggested by Honeywell withdrawal of the rejection is requested.

However the Honeywell sodium nonatitanate has a strontium/rubidium separation factor of 12,500 at an alkaline pH which is not patentably distinct from that instantly claimed and therefore is obvious thereover. See MPEP 2144.05, section I.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
